SUPPLEMENT TO SOCIAL STUDIES

FOR THE

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Introduction to Social Studies Supplement. (Porausen Usun Ach Nonnom.)

When we talk or think about where and how we get our food, clothing and shelter, we are thinking about social studies (Porausen Usun Ach Nonnom). A large part of our lives is spent providing these things for ourselves. In order to provide these things we must work to get or make them ourselves or we must work to get money so that we can buy them.

People cannot live without food. Without good food which keeps our bodies strong and healthy we cannot do the things we want to do nor the kind of work that needs to be done if we are to have happy successful lives. If we want happy successful lives, besides good food, we must have decent clothing, good homes and pleasant surroundings. Most of these things we will have to get through our own work. The following units should give information that will help us to improve our living. Nobody lives so well that he cannot make improvements.

The teachers will choose the questions and answers that they can teach best at this time. It is not necessary to follow the questions in the order that they appear on these pages. You will try to get the questions from the children. Their questions and interests may not be exactly the ones listed here. The teacher must pick out the questions that the children ask that will lead to good educational experiences and provide them with information that they need to have.

Before the teachers begin on any social studies they should read carefully pages 12 and 13 in the Truk District Elementary Curriculum for 1958.

When each unit is finished, the teacher and children should discuss
